WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

Barclays Capital Inc. - August 8, 2016

"In addition, there is still a substantial difference between GAAP net investment income and the dividend, which we view as not sustainable long-term . . . While we think that the rotation of the portfolio could be positive for shareholders longer term, management's current refusal to engage with certain activists on issues that could result in immediate benefit to existing shareholders leaves us concerned."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - August 8, 2016

"TICC's dividend has been under more scrutiny recently as the stock is now yielding 20% as compared to the BDC average of approximately 11%. Furthermore, TICC's NOI has failed to cover even 50% of TICC's dividend in the last three quarters, meaning that a sizable amount of TICC's dividend is technically a return of capital."

Ladenburg Thalmann & Co., Inc. - August 8, 2016

"TICC previously announced its intent to rotate out of CLOs into proprietary investments, though it does not seem a priority at the moment. Such a rotation introduces several uncertainties regarding the portfolio's post-transition structure/risk, its course/timing, and the sustainability of the current dividend."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - May 5, 2016

We continue to view TSLX as a best-in-class BDC who consistently delivers on its strategy of maximizing per share economics. While the stock trades at a modest premium NAV valuation of 1.06x, we believe that the BDC's access to capital and exemplary credit track record will continue to be appreciated by the market."

Barclays Capital Inc. - May 4, 2016

"The revised fee structure is an improvement over the previous structure, but we point out that even the lower base fee is likely high for broadly syndicated loans and CLOs that make up the TICC portfolio, especially when returns have been sub-par."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - May 3, 2016

"[W]e believe that TICC's portfolio growth and ability to rotate into proprietary deals could be limited. What's more, TICC's current dividend policy of distributing dividends in excess of earnings is likely to negatively impact equity (and offsetting the positive impact of deleveraging)."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - March 18, 2016

"Professional fees [are]...likely going to be higher as this manager uses shareholder capital to keep its external manger [sic] in place. The most devastating part of the quarter, in our opinion, was finding that the external management company has and may consider to expense its sale process /proxy battles to the BDC - which we believe sends the message to shareholders that the management fee is the most important."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - February 4, 2016

"As of yesterday's close, TICC has been among the worst performers since the annual meeting with a total return of -16.4%, over 10 percentage points worse than the BDC index. In our view, this is partially attributable to likely heavy exposure to CLO Equity at this point but moreover the erosion of the potential premium that shareholders likely would have received under a market/premium manager or strategy."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - February 4, 2016

"TICC has underperformed on most any metric . . . [W]e believe that severe NAV declines in recent quarters will lead to more upset shareholders that are likely to seek a premium offer."

Institutional Shareholder Services Inc. - October 16, 2015

"[T]he prudent strategy may be to send the [TICC] board back to the drawing board, and ask it to run the process it does not appear to have run when first presented with the opportunity."

Egan-Jones Ratings Company - October 13, 2015

"We are concerned that the current Board of TICC may not be operating in a manner that is in the best long term interest of shareholders. We are also concerned that at least some of the independent members of that board may have for a variety of reasons, lost their ability to be truly independent."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - October 9, 2015

"A Vote for TICC does not 'Protect' The Distribution . . . We believe this dividend will get cut regardless as TICC does not have the operating earnings to support the dividend at all."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - October 7, 2015

"The 'Independent' Special Committee is not as 'independent' as it appears—an independent board member derives over $280k a year from Royce Funds (note the founder of Royce Funds is an owner of the BDC external manager...and is slated to receive $60MM on the external manager sale)."

Barclays Capital Inc. - October 6, 2015

"[W]e believe TSLX's offer represents the best value out of the three and can potentially deliver to current TICC shareholders a combination of upfront return on shares, participation in future upside of a combined BDC, and access to a broader platform and quality management."

Antoine Gara, Forbes - October 2, 2015

"Who wins the battle for TICC Capital or what a fair price for the BDC is remains in question. One thing is clear; investors lured by the promise of high yields should tread carefully. It turns out some companies are reaching into investors' own pockets to make fat dividend payments."

Wells Fargo Securities, LLC - September 22, 2015

"Unfortunately for TICC shareholders, as we examine TICC's collateral (which is nearly void of real proprietary transactions), we find that investors have been paying nearly 6x the normal fee that should be charged on these large/liquid/BSL (broadly syndicated loan) type assets."

One of the largest TICC stockholders, Ragging Capital Management, LLC letter to TICC Board of Directors - September 21, 2015

"Now, we want to ensure that the TICC Board is acting in accordance with its fiduciary obligations... We find ourselves at a critical juncture in TICC's history where the Board's decisions and actions over the next few weeks will have significant ramifications to stockholders."

JMP Securities LLC - September 17, 2015

"[W]e believe the action taken by [TSLX] management highlights our favorable perception of the company's leading governance practices and focus on creating shareholder value."

Keefe, Bruyette & Woods, Inc. - September 16, 2015

"The $0.29 [TICC] dividend is not sustainable, and we expect it will be cut regardless of what happens. We have been talking about a dividend cut for over a year now...Now TSLX provides an interesting offer and the [TICC] Board rejects it without negotiating with TSLX. As the title of our note implies, we are questioning whether the [TICC] Board is really doing all they can to maximize shareholder value."

Ladenburg Thalmann & Co., Inc. - September 16, 2015

"As part of TPG, TICC shareholders would benefit from access to its broad platform including a direct origination team. Over the last year TSLX has outperformed our BDC index by about 12% and [outperformed] TICC by about 24% on a total return basis."

Keefe, Bruyette & Woods, Inc. - August 31, 2015

"We fail to see how the board of directors at TICC can fulfill their legal fiduciary responsibility to TICC shareholders and not [meaningfully] explore the potential for a transaction with an existing quality manager in the BDC sector."
